

ABSTRACT

A system and method for providing a remote office where documents are stored in a separate location on a storage medium. The documents are available to the remote office through a secure link over the Internet.